Our new segment 'Have you met my colleague' is all about presenting the best of our talent and teamwork across the group in a fun and interesting way, whilst entertaining at the same time.

We want to create a feeling of togetherness and collaboration and so this segment aims to help employees get to know each other better across continents, countries, cities and departments.

Do you have a great colleague you wish to showcase to the wider group; do they have a specific talent we should know about or maybe you want to shine the spotlight on their great work? Reach out to Backstage to nominate someone we should meet.
